WOMEN WHO CHARM

HEALTH IS THE FIRST ESSENTIAL

Helps Women to Win and Hold Men's Admiration, Respect and Love

Woman's greatest gift is the power to inspire admiration, respect, and love. There is a beauty in health which is more attractive to men than mere regularity of feature.

Mrs. Chas. F. Brown

To be a successful wife, to retain the love and admiration of her husband, should be a woman's constant study. At the first indication of ill-health, painful or irregular periods, headache or backache, secure Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begin its use.

Mrs. Chas. F. Brown, Vice-President Mothers' Club, 21 Cedar Terrace, Hot Springs, Ark., writes: "For nine years I dragged through a miserable existence, suffering with inflammation and female weakness and worn out with pain and weariness. I once noticed a statement by a woman suffering as I was, but who had been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I determined to try it. At the end of three months I was a different woman. Every one remarked about it, and my husband fell in love with me all over again. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound built up my entire system, cured the trouble, and I felt like a new woman. I am sure it will make every suffering woman strong, well and happy, as it has me."

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, bloating (or flatulence), displacements, inflammation or ulceration, that "bearing-down" feeling, dizziness, faintness, indigestion, or nervous prostration may be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

born on a farm in Butler county, on November 17, 1835, and has lived on a farm most of his life. When he was three years old his family moved to Preble county. He attended Miami university, being graduated in 1860.

ANDREW L. HARRIS, Governor of the State of Ohio.

He returned to the farm, but was soon called from it by the Civil war. Lincoln's first call for troops for three months' service received a prompt response from him. He was mustered in as second lieutenant of company C, 20th O. V. I., April 17, 1860. In November, 1861, he became captain of company S, 75th O. V. I. Promotion to major came in January, 1863, and to a colonelcy four months later. He was brevetted brigadier general in 1865.

General Harris was wounded twice, once at McDowell, Va., where he was shot through the right arm and side, a wound that still occasionally gives him trouble; and again at Gettysburg, Pa., where, leading a division, he was shot through the left side. From this wound he completely recovered.

On his return from the war General Harris was chosen state senator. He left the farm to study law, as his severe wounds rendered manual labor impossible for him. Later, however, he again took up farming, although continuing his practice of law. In 1875 he was elected probate judge holding the office two terms. A decade later he once more entered the state legislature, this time as a representative, and served two terms.

His next appearance in public life was in 1891, when he was nominated for lieutenant governor on the ticket which McKinley headed. He presided over the senate two terms, then ran for Congress against Paul Sork in a district which had a normal Democratic plurality of 4000. He lost by only 200. In 1895 he was an unsuccessful candidate for the gubernatorial nomination against Asa S. Bushnell. President McKinley appointed him a member of the United States industrial commission, which compiled its labors in 1902. In May 1905, he was nominated for lieutenant governor, an event which was followed by his election November 8, over Lewis B. Houck, the Democratic nominee, who has been Governor Pattison's private secretary.

CHAIRMAN GARBER EULOGIZES FRIEND

Attorney General Ellis Explains Matters Connected With the Succession.

Columbus, June 19.—A formal notice was sent to General Harris last night by Secretary of State Laylin informing him of Governor Pattison's death and directing him to come to the capital at once and take the oath and assume the duties of office. The secretary had not been informed when the notice was sent that General Harris had already taken the oath at Eaton.

Harvey C. Garber, chairman of the Democratic state executive committee, last night issued a statement in which he declared that Governor Pattison had been spared long enough to carry out most of the campaign pledges made by his party, and especially with reference to legislation. Mr. Garber says Governor Pattison's chief contribution to the state was his high ideals and purity of purpose and the demonstration that a political campaign can be waged and political power wielded without violation of the precept of the golden rule.

A meeting of the state officials will be held today to take action regarding the governor's death.

Attorney General Wade H. Ellis, when asked to make a statement upon the effect of the death of Governor Pattison upon the state government, said:

"There is no vacancy in the office of lieutenant governor. General Harris will simply assume the functions of governor and execute the powers of that office until a successor is elected in 1908, who will take his office on the second Monday of January, 1909. 'If the lieutenant governor, while executing the office of governor, should die or resign or otherwise become incapable of performing the duties, the president of the senate will act as governor, and if the president of the senate, for any cause, should become incapable of performing the duties of governor, the functions of that office will next devolve upon the speaker of the house of representatives.

"All this is provided for in the executive article of the Constitution."

DEATH WAS SUDDEN.

Governor Pattison's death came rather suddenly, and was unexpected, even by the attending physicians and his family, and was caused by a relapse from his disease. The declining stage of Governor Pattison's final illness dates from last Friday, when his wish to be taken out on the front porch of his home was gratified. He looked over the familiar scenes he loved so well and was in great spirits, when suddenly he complained of severe pain. The sick out was hurriedly wheeled into the house and the nurses applied stimulants, and Dr. Belt was hastily summoned. This attack was really the beginning of the end, though the governor soon rallied and Friday evening seemed as well as he had been before. Dr. Holt was so encouraged with the condition of the governor on Sunday that he hesitated about coming out from Cincinnati Monday. Sunday at 8 o'clock the governor became restless and suffered considerable acute pain, but later in the night he sank into a quiet sleep. The nurse thought he was sleeping restfully and naturally, although Mrs. Pattison, as was her custom, slept in the same room where the governor lay, she was not disturbed. When the morning dawned there had been no change, and when the family arose it was with the belief that he was sleeping peacefully. At 10 o'clock Dr. Belt made his usual morning visit, and found his patient in a comatose state. All was done that medical skill could do, but the governor never rallied, and death came peacefully at 4:20 Monday afternoon.

At the governor's bedside when he died were Mrs. Pattison and his two daughters, Misses Aletha and Ernestine, and the nurses.

Governor's Illness.

Not at any time a man of powerful physique, Governor Pattison entered upon the responsibilities of his office in a somewhat weakened condition, the strain of the campaign having worn on him that a trip to the south was taken in November and December in the hope of regaining health. After the election in November it was understood that he was suffering from an attack of malaria, from which a change of climate and rest from work would quickly restore him. However, when he returned from a sojourn of several weeks in the south he was still weak, and under the advice of his physician his part of the inauguration ceremonies was gone through with the utmost care.

A glass covering was provided for the reviewing stand that he might be protected from the stormy January winds and through that he reviewed one of the most elaborate parades that has ever graced the inauguration of any Ohio governor. In a closed carriage he was taken to the various festivities of the night and then went to his home, from which he only emerged for a few short walks until brought to this city on a special train during the night of April 5. He continued to oversee the work of his office, and through his private secretary, Louis B. Houck, who had been his running mate on the Democratic ticket, transacted considerable public business, even when unable to arise from bed. Several times he seemed so far recovered that his speedy appearance at the executive offices was looked for at almost any time, but the weather conditions and his weakened system forbade the taking of any risks, so that he was kept closely to his home.

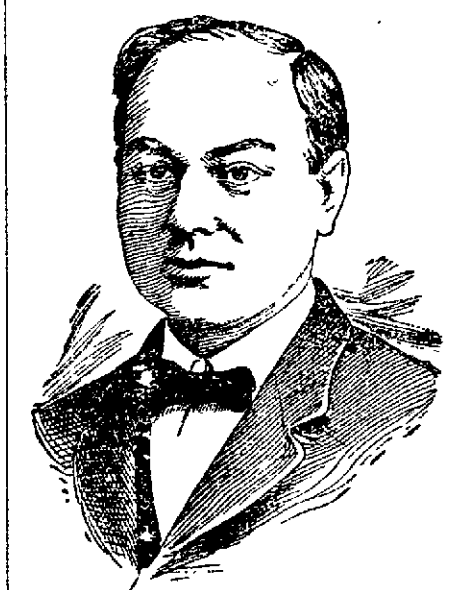

The severest setback during his illness came about the middle of March, and for several days he hovered between life and death. During this time his every thought seemed to be Monday to testify that his condition was such that he was able to transact official business. His private secretary, L. B. Houck, also testified to his good condition, explaining that he had recently gone over much business with him. Although there has been for months an expressed fear that Governor Pattison would not be able to return to his office at Columbus, the cheerful statements from his sick room tended to create a belief that any fatal outcome of his prolonged sickness would be long deferred.

CAPITAL SHOCKED

By the Death of Governor Pattison. Funeral Arrangements.

Columbus, O., June 16.—All Columbus was shocked by the death of Governor John M. Pattison, for it had been the general impression that his condition was no worse. If his office or political associates had believed the end was so near, they gave no indication of it. The surprise manifested at his death was no greater on the streets than in the statehouse. No one seemed prepared for the news.

The state officials will participate in the funeral exercises over the body of Governor Pattison. On the reception of the news of the governor's death, Secretary of State Laylin and State Auditor Guilbert consulted with Attorney General Ellis and Speaker Thompson of the house, Executive Clerk Black and other officials. It is considered probable that, in accordance with the suggestion of Speaker Thompson, the entire legislature, and not merely the committee, will attend the funeral at Milford. The supreme court and the state officers will go in a body.

Attorney General Ellis said: "The death of Governor Pattison is the saddest event that has occurred in Ohio in many years. Above and beyond any party or political considerations the loss of this man is a great public misfortune. He was pure, honest and brave, and those characteristics will win the love and respect of the people of many men at all times and in all places."

Governor Pattison's death will make no change in the plans of Mark Slater, who has brought suit to oust J. W. Johnson of Waverly from the office of state printer. "Governor Pattison's death is a vindication for me," said Mr. Slater.

ACTING GOVERNOR.

Lawyers Claim Harris Still Holds Lieutenant Governorship.

Columbus, O., June 19.—Lieutenant Governor Andrew L. Harris succeeding to the governorship, according to the wording of the state constitution, will continue to be lieutenant governor, but will "perform the duties pertaining to the office of governor," "execute the office of governor" and "exercise the office of governor," each of these expressions being used. In the opinion of constitutional lawyers, no vacancy in the office of lieutenant governor has been created. Therefore, Governor Harris as acting governor will not appoint a lieutenant governor. The present instance is not a parallel case to that of Lieutenant Governor Nippert. When Nippert resigned the lieutenant governorship to become probate judge of Hamilton county, there was created a vacancy in the office of lieutenant governor. This vacancy the supreme court in its decision of the test suit brought by Judge Oker of this city, ordered Governor Nash to fill, which he did by appointment of Harry L. Gordon of Cincinnati. In the present instance a vacancy has occurred in the governorship, but not in the lieutenant governorship. So clear is this point in the minds of lawyers that Attorney General Ellis considers it not necessary incumbent upon Governor Harris to take the oath of office as governor. However, he doubtless will do so, and without delay.

After the lieutenant governor, next in succession is the president pro tempore of the senate, Senator James M. Williams of Cuyahoga county. The succession next devolves upon the speaker of the house, Colonel Carmi A. Thompson of Lawrence county. There is only one precedent for the calamity which has befallen the state of Ohio. Six governors have resigned, but only one died in office. This was John Brough, who died in August, 1865. He was succeeded by Charles Anderson, who served the remaining portion of the term. Before the adoption of the second constitution, there was no office of lieutenant governor.

A WIZARD AT COOKING

Reminiscences of G. W. Harvey, Washington Epicure.

HAPPY WHEN FIXING UP A DINNER

Oysters, Canvasback Duck and Terrapin His Specialties — His Restaurant in the National Capital, Which He Recently Sold, Famous For Many Years — How He Won in a Contest at Paris.

George Washington Harvey, the famous epicure and restaurant keeper of Washington, who has sold his business and will retire to contemplate at his ease his fifty years of good eating and drinking for both himself and his patrons, is a very short and a very fat man, says a Washington special dispatch to the New York World. He has not been well for a year or two, but he has been around all the time telling his friends what delicacies he found in market and advising them how to get their selections cooked.

Harvey had three specialties. He considered all food except the oyster, the canvasback duck and the terrapin more raw materials, with which results sometimes most gratifying could be accomplished. Ducks, oysters and terrapin he considered the finest gifts of the Creator to mankind, and he devoted most of his research and knowledge of the culinary art to serving these.

His bill of fare contained almost 200 oyster dishes, many of them unique. If a good dinner were needed and Harvey were asked about it, he would always select oysters—and he had some special beds—terrapin cooked in his own style and a duck. When canvasbacks were not plentiful and good he served others, but the pinnacle of his accomplishment was with a canvasback.

Harvey knew every famous or notable or noticeable American who came to Washington. The reputation of his steamed oysters is universal. Almost every stranger in the city hustled down to his place to get half a peck or a peck of steamed oysters. Harvey invented this method of cooking oysters. His "steamed bar" has been named for years by the same waiters. His sauce is his own invention also.

When people wanted to have a real terrapin for dinner they usually went to Harvey, for he had the genuine eastern shore diamond backs in his cellar. There are plenty of things that pass for terrapin among the uninitiated. There is a Pennsylvania terrapin that can be had by the ton. Harvey knew all the tricks, but when he told you he would give you terrapin you got diamond back, and you paid for it. But that is another story. Harvey had a grip on the diamond back market. He gathered in most of the toothsome turtles that came this way. When the canvasbacks began flying south Harvey got the pick of the market.

He was joyous when fixing up a dinner. He kept his waiters for years. "Billy" has been there more than thirty years and John Scott nearly as long. "Uncle Peter," who died a year or two ago, had been opening oysters at the "raw box" more than forty years. Some of the cooks have been there more than a quarter of a century.

Harvey used to vaddle up and down through the dining room. If he saw a man who looked as if he needed some help he would give it. It was a favorite trick of his to go to a customer, look over his food and add a spoonful of sauce or something of the kind himself. He knew what the finishing touch should be. When there was a terrapin feast on he always stood by, saw that the sauce was right and brought out a little of his best wine.

He is very proud of his acquaintance. In his early days he and Thomas Nast, the cartoonist, formed the Canvasback club and gave great feasts. All the great men were his guests. Harvey went to Paris a few years ago. His fame had preceded him, and he found many Americans there who knew about his skill in making good things to eat. His friends proclaimed that Harvey could make a better salad dressing than any cook France ever saw. The Frenchmen disputed it. In the time a salad dressing contest was arranged between Harvey and two Parisian epicures, each of whom thought he had mastered all there was to know about salad dressing.

The contest came off in a restaurant. The three competitors called for the ingredients they wished and mixed their salads and then made their dressings. There was a large number of spectators, and the excitement was intense. Just before the mixers passed their salads over to the judges Harvey took a small leather case out of his pocket, picked out a little bottle, uncorked it and let a drop or two of a colorless liquid fall on the salad. Then he put the bottle back in his pocket, handed in his salad and waited for the verdict.

The judges tasted and tried and compared for half an hour. They unanimously decided that Harvey's salad won the prize not because it was intrinsically better than the salads of the Frenchman, but because the mysterious liquid he had put on it from the bottle added a strange, indefinable aroma that made the Harvey salad superior.

The Americans escorted Harvey to his hotel. When they were celebrating there one of them said to Harvey: "George, what was it you put on that salad out of that bottle?" "Nothing," said Harvey—"nothing at all but plain water out of the pump. I knew these Frenchmen were imaginative, and I thought I'd appeal to them, and I did appeal to 'em."

GOV. PATTISON IS DEAD.

John M. Pattison is dead! This sad message which came over the wires from Milford, Ohio, Monday evening, filled every heart with sorrow for all—opponents and friends alike—had learned to admire and respect the man who had been stricken just at the beginning of his term as governor of Ohio.

The news was unexpected as only a few hours before his death an official bulletin was issued indicating that the governor had rallied after the relapse of last Friday, and that his condition was satisfactory.

Never has a sick official more fully enlisted the sympathy of the people of this state. From the beginning of his illness, Ohio citizens irrespective of party affiliations, have looked upon Governor Pattison's suffering with great sorrow.

The governor however, was spared long enough to carry into execution many of the party's campaign pledges so far as legislation was concerned. He was proceeding carefully and cautiously and though embarrassed in many ways and attacked in an unscrupulous manner while on his sick bed by unfounded reports as to his mental condition, he went bravely ahead in spite of his sickness and the results he accomplished in spite of his affliction are a credit to his administration.

Gov. Pattison was a man of high ideals, a man whose life is a moral example worth following. His death almost at the threshold of his official term is deeply and widely deplored, but the good work that he has done and the good example he has set will live after him.

The people of Ohio will join in extending to the bereaved family the most profound sympathy.

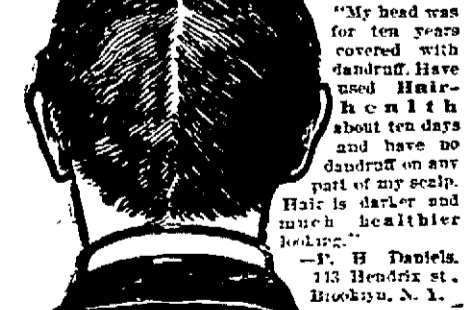

Hon. John M. Pattison, 58 years of age, was born and brought up in the country. At the time of his birth his father was a tenant farmer, living near Boston, Clermont county, Ohio.

During his youth John M. Pattison clerked in a store and worked on the farm and there acquired those habits of early rising and application which enabled him through life to perform a prodigious amount of labor.

At the age of 16 he enlisted as a soldier in the Federal army and served faithfully for the term of his enlistment, at the end of which he was honorably discharged. After the war he worked his way through college by teaching and other means, including hard labor in harvest fields, graduating at the Ohio Wesleyan university, Delaware, Ohio, in the class of 1869.

Immediately after graduating he spent three years in the west, and, while engaged in other business, took up the study of law and was admitted to the bar and began practice in Cincinnati in 1872. In the following year he was elected a member of the legislature from Hamilton county on the Democratic ticket, receiving the largest vote cast for a candidate on the ticket.

After practicing law in Cincinnati for ten years, Mr. Pattison was elected vice president and manager of the Union Central Life Insurance company, and for more than twenty years was virtually the leading spirit of this great Ohio institution.

In the winter of 1890 he accepted a nomination for the state senate to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Ashburn. Upon his success depended the political complexion of the senate, and for this reason the campaign became one of national importance. Upon his election depended the enactment of a law redistricting the state for congressional purposes, a matter of the highest importance to the Democrats of Ohio at that time. Notwithstanding the expenditure to the Republicans of the largest campaign fund ever known in Southern Ohio in a similar contest, Mr. Pattison carried the district by a majority largely in excess of the normal.

While a member of the senate he was nominated and elected a member of congress by a very large majority, more than 2,000 in excess of that usually given in the counties composing the district in which he ran. He was present in his seat and voted on all the important measures of the congress of which he was a member, and was especially active in securing one of the first appropriations for free delivery. By the Republican gerrymander of 1892, he was placed in a district with an adverse majority of 5,000 in which a re-election was hopeless.

Mr. Pattison belonged to the Masonic order, being a member of Trinity commandery, and had taken the Scottish Rite degree. He was a member and trustee of the Milford M. E. church, and a trustee of the Ohio Wesleyan university at Delaware, Ohio. He helped to organize the Milford National bank, of which he was an officer, but never owned more than enough of the stock to qualify him to act as director. He also helped to incorporate the Milford Manufacturing company and the Enterprise Publishing company, both enterprises of the village of Milford. He was a member of the Business Men's club and the Commercial club of Cincinnati.

FORTY-SIXTH STATE.

Another state was added to the Union last Saturday when President Roosevelt signed the bill admitting Oklahoma and Indian Territory as one state, the forty-sixth state in the Union. The measure also provides that Arizona and New Mexico may be admitted to statehood as the state of Arizona, provided the people of those two territories vote in favor of admission on the terms submitted to them by Congress.

The President used two pens in signing the bill which added the forty-sixth star to the flag of the nation, writing "Theodore" with a solid gold pen presented by the people of Indian Territory and "Roosevelt" with an eagle's quill taken from an American eagle in Oklahoma. Whether the people of Arizona and New Mexico will vote in favor of joint statehood is a question that can only be answered definitely at the polls.

If New Mexico and Arizona decide to come into the Union it will put an end to state making for years, if not forever, as this will take all the available land except Alaska, and the prospect for the admission of Alaska as a state seems remote. Hawaii is now a territory and will probably remain so while Porto Rico is not yet even a territory in the common acceptance of the word.

Hon. Wm. A. Ashbrook of Johnstown, who represents Licking county in the Seventy-seventh General Assembly, was nominated Saturday by the Seventeenth district Democratic convention, at New Philadelphia, for congress, after 277 ballots had been cast. Mr. Ashbrook will be elected, as he deserves to be. He is one of the publishers of the Johnstown Independent, is connected with several banks and other business institutions, besides being corresponding secretary of the National Editorial association. He is one of the best business men in Licking county, and his energy, vim and resourcefulness are marvelous.—Canal Winchester Times.

We gather from the news that the Moros on Mindanao are likely to be exterminated for the seventh consecutive time by some method of benevolent assimilation not yet revealed, and perhaps not devised. Whether they are to be slaughtered in a crater, or ambushed and mowed down in a bloody harvest, is not confided. They are not acting as insurgents or bandits this time, for the population was long ago exterminated that could furnish quotas for these classes. A witch has appeared, and hence all that have not suffered in any of the several exterminations are fanatics. It relieves the benevolent and Christian American mind intent solely on assimilation by extermination, or vice versa, to have merely fanatics to encounter. And then there is $20,000,000 annually for expenses in the Philippines, and it is absolutely necessary that some fanatics should come forward to justify the account.—Pittsburg Post.

BOND ISSUE REJECTED BY TRUSTEES. BECAUSE OF A LACK OF FUNDS

Proposition for City Hospital—Ordinances to Pave West Main and High Streets Passed—Extension of City Limits—Business of City Council.

At the opening of City Council Monday night, President Harry Rossel, after the tap of the gavel and before any business was called for, arose and made the announcement that since assembling in the chamber, the sad news had been received that Hon. John M. Pattison, Governor of Ohio, had died at 4:20. The announcement was like casting a pall over the members of council and the large audience present.

After the roll call to which members Hughes, Moser, Conrad, Beadle, Caine, King and McNealy answered the clerk read the minutes of the preceding meeting and they were approved.

The finance committee reported that the issue of bonds in the sum of $7,500 for the erection of a fire department, and $8,000 for the erection of a police station had been rejected by the Board of Sinking Fund trustees for the want of funds.

The city engineer reported to the Board of Public Service as to the encroachment of property owners on Riley, Williams and Hancock streets. The report was received and filed. This report had been submitted to the Board of Public Service and was read by Clerk Munch.

Mr. Moser submitted a proposition from Mr. W. N. Fulton to sell his property at the corner of Locust and Fifth streets to be used for hospital purposes; received and filed.

Another communication was submitted by Dr. J. A. Mitchell offering part of the old Weiant property on Wyoming street, now under construction, for $9,000, ready for occupancy on September 1; received and filed.

A committee reported in favor of extending the city limits in the North End, and against the extension of the city limits in the East End.

The ordinance providing for the extension of the city limits in the east and north portions of the city was read for the second time.

Attorney Carl Norpell, representing a number of residents of the East End, east of the corporate limits said that a remonstrance had been filed; these remonstrances were read by Clerk Munch. In these remonstrances the signers objected on the ground that it was unfair to annex said territory as the city of Newark now had a bonded debt, from which the signers could not possibly derive any benefit; the remonstrance was received and filed; there was no remonstrance from the North End.

An ordinance on first reading was introduced to pave West Main street from Raceon creek bridge to Sixteenth street by paving; passed under a suspension of the rules. The portion of this assessment which falls on the city will be about $11,000 or $12,000.

An ordinance to pave High street was read and passed under a suspension of the rules.

An ordinance to construct a sewer on Buena Vista street, introduced by Mr. Beadle, was read for the first time; passed under a suspension of the rules.

An ordinance to improve Eastern avenue and Webb street by the construction of sewers was read for the first time; passed under a suspension of the rules.

An ordinance accepting Joseph R. Moser's first addition to the city of Newark was read for the first time, and referred to the Board of Public Service.

An ordinance prohibiting vendors and peddlers to ply their trade on Second street and Church street between certain limits, was referred to the law committee.

An ordinance was read for the first time that any person desiring to remove any building shall first secure a license from the Mayor.

The ordinance amending the North Fourth street assessing ordinance was read for the third time and passed.

RESOLUTIONS.

By Mr. Beadle: Authorizing the solicitor to prepare an ordinance for the purchase of the Jack Clark property on Buena Vista street for hospital purposes was not passed, the vote being 4 ayes, 7 nays.

That the bid of the Franklin National Bank for the deposit of city funds not now on deposit, for 2.77 per cent. interest be accepted.

THE NOMINEE.

Judge Maurice A. Donahue, the Democratic candidate for nomination for his second term as Circuit judge of this circuit, comprising the fifteen counties, is a native of Perry county and was elected for his first term as Circuit judge in 1900, previous to which time he served two terms as prosecuting attorney in Perry county. Judge Donahue was elected to the position which he now holds on the Ohio bench after an earnest campaign and a close contest.

Judge Donahue's able decisions and legal knowledge and ability are sufficient proof of his capability to occupy the high position which he has held so efficiently. His grasp of important points of law and his strength of purpose and character all combine to win for him an extensive acquaintance with the jurists of the state who fully realize his power on the bench.

JUDGE MAURICE H. DONAHUE.

Judge Donahue would be nominated, and the convention was about to proceed with a formal presentation of his name. Judge S. M. Hunter of Licking county, called attention to this fact and the jurist's name was presented to the convention in a short speech by Judge R. M. Voorhees of Coshocton county.

ALFONSO XIII. LOOKS LIKE ANCESTORS.

Philip IV of Spain as immortalized by Velasquez

Alfonso as Grand Master of the Knights of Calatrava

These two pictures all create in a striking way the persistence of a type of feature in a family. It is particularly noticeable in all the families that come the ruling families of Europe for the simple reason that they intermarry so perpetually.

Philip IV, who reigned from 1621 until 1665, was the son of Philip III, and presented many facial features of the Hapsburgs for his father. His mother, Elizabeth, and his second wife were what we would now call Austrians. He was succeeded by his son, Charles II, while his daughter, Marie Theresa, married Louis XIV.

CIRCUIT JUDGES SUSTAIN COMMON PLEAS COURT IN ROBERT LINGAFELTER'S CASE

The Circuit court at 2 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon sustained the decision of the Common Pleas court which found Robert C. Lingafelter guilty of forgery and sentenced him to an indefinite term in the Mansfield reformatory.

The Circuit court in session here handed down its decision upon the petitions in error in the case of Ohio vs. R. C. Lingafelter, in which a new trial was requested by the defense upon three general error claims: first, that the trial court had no discretion regarding the request for a change of venue; second, that the admission as evidence of similar offenses to those charged in the indictment was improper; The third claim upon which the error proceedings were based was several minor requests by counsel for the defense which were not granted by the trial judge.

After reviewing each of the claims,

Judge Taggart, who delivered the opinion, cited numerous varied decisions in similar cases and in conclusion sustained the decision of the trial judge.

After confirming the judgment of the trial judge on request of counsel for the defendant, who desired suspension of sentence until an opportunity was had to confer with the Supreme court the Circuit court granted 45 days, stating that it was not customary to grant such a length of time, but owing to the fact that the counsel on both side were extremely busy at this time, the request would be allowed.

The court required a new bond from R. C. Lingafelter, who is now out on a bond of $5000. The defendant was given until evening to secure the bond, after which time, if it is not forthcoming, he will be taken in the custody of the sheriff at the county jail.

LONG SESSION BUT LITTLE BUSINESS

SCHOOL BOARD'S TIME TAKEN UP IN CONSIDERATION OF MINOR MATTERS.

Book Question Discussed but Action
Deferred Until Next Meeting.
Teachers' Assignment.

At the Board of Education meeting Monday night considerable time was taken up with minor affairs and very little was accomplished within that time.

The report of Superintendent Simkins was heard and in this connection the question of the adoption of books was discussed, but was finally deferred until a later meeting, as was also the assignment of teachers for the coming year.

Applications for teachers' positions were received from Mr. C. L. Scott and Misses Anna E. Robinson and Julia E. Prichard, but were not acted upon.

A communication was received from Miss Crilly, who was recently appointed to a position as teacher, stating that she would be compelled to decline the acceptance for the reason that she desired to try for a high school place. Miss Lucy Johnson was granted an indefinite leave of absence.

Miss Mary Haight was re-employed as assistant in the office of the superintendent.

FAMILY REUNION COMPLETE SUCCESS

Harris and Wenger Families With Connections Had Enjoyable Meeting June 15.

The great Harris and Wenger family reunion was a success. These families with their children, numbering some 125, met with Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Wenger, June 15th near Highwater, O. The day was a model one for such occasion. The air was cool and fresh, the sky clear and bright and the well opened flowers of the meadows and lawns of that magnificent country place filled the air with their fragrance, the lowing of cattle and the chattering of the fowls seemed to welcome the happy company. Amidst these pleasant circumstances the noon hour soon came, when a sumptuous dinner was announced and served beneath three magnificent beech trees that stood in the lawn of the brother mentioned above.

Everything in the line of eatables were served from the yellow legged chicken of Ohio to California peaches. The well prepared dinner was hugely enjoyed by all present. After the meal was served the kin people visited for an hour or more, after which a very creditable program was rendered by the Harris and Wenger young ladies and gentlemen. Many characteristics of this family were shown in this gathering, a few of which I wish to mention. First, the intellectual ability displayed in the selections of music and recitals, they showed talent, wit and facts.

Second, the manner of sociability manifested itself in such a way that a person, though a stranger, could not feel related to them.

Third, the spirit of character was that of the sweetest, having with it virtue, honor and love. The writer addressed the company along the line of "Sociology." The day was most well spent and all went to their homes feeling that it was very good to have been there together. Their next reunion will be the last of June, 1907, and are to meet with Harris Parsons, near Appleton, O.

CARS WRECKED AT BLACK LICK

BOTH TRACKS WERE BLOCKED FOR SEVERAL HOURS ON TUESDAY MORNING.

Engineer Riegger Badly Injured by Jumping to Save His Life—Four Cars Derailed.

A bad wreck occurred on the C. & N. division of the Pan Handle and B. & O. railroads at Black Lick, 13 miles west of Newark, on Tuesday morning at 7:42 o'clock which delayed traffic for about three hours on both the Pan Handle and B. & O. roads. Pan Handle extra $577, Engineer Jesse Riegger son of Pan Handle Baggage Master Matt Riegger, of this place, at the throttle, and Conductor Evans in charge of the train, ran into the rear of B. & O. extra west, drawn by engine 1643, with Engineer John McNurey and Conductor Trickey in charge, derailing four cars on the B. & O. train, which were piled up, blocking both tracks.

Conductor Evans, who was in charge of the Pan Handle train, and Engineer Riegger, both jumped to save their lives. Engineer Riegger was badly jarred and shaken up, but Conductor Evans escaped injury. The Cincinnati newspaper train was delayed about two and a half hours. The B. & O. wreck train from Newark was sent to the scene of the accident.

IT WAS LOREE'S TRAIN.
General Manager Fitzgerald of the B. & O., passed through the city from Chicago en route for various points along the road.

It was learned Tuesday that the collision which was reported to this city from Wheeling and which was said to have occurred between General Manager Fitzgerald's train and a B. & O. freight near Bridgeport Monday morning, was not between the two trains stated in the message received in this city, but between General Superintendent Loree's train and the freight. Superintendent Loree was not injured, however.

LEVI BEVARD

next saw Levi at breakfast next morning; after breakfast Rosa drove me to the Wehrle foundry; saw nothing unusual about the horse or buggy; I was employed as riveter in the safe department; first heard of my aunt's death about 3 or 4 o'clock that afternoon; Chief Sheridan notified me; Levi wore a derby hat when he came from Iowa; it became broken and he and I went to Bloomberg's store, where a soft hat was purchased and the derby was thrown under the counter; I have never seen that hat since; it has not been in Levi's possession; the hat purchased at Bloomberg's is the one he now wears;
he wore at the time a light suit;
Levi went to my aunt's funeral; Eva did not; never saw any blood on Levi's clothing."

"Cross-examined by Mr. Fitzgibbon:
"Born in Ohio three years; came from Iowa with Levi; first boarded in Newark on Union street; I mean Wilson street; don't know who kept the boarding house; Levi and I worked at the foundry; we then went to Casper Bower's place; Will was staying at my aunt's; got a note from my aunt brought to me by Eva Wertz; I read it; don't know where it is now; don't remember what I did with the note;
may have put it in my trunk; don't remember so testifying before the coroner; don't remember whether it was signed 'Frances Wertz' or 'Chas.
Hoover'; last I saw of the letter was that evening; the letter said that 'Aunt Dice' said that I had forged a note and if I didn't settle she would prosecute me; it was written with ink; the note was given to you; I did not carry it away; the note was for $10 and it was paid the Monday after my aunt's death; she gave me money to pay a bill of $3.37 at Smith & Norris' lumber yard; I paid it a week afterwards; Mrs. Wertz did not like the fact that Levi married Rosa; he never visited there after the marriage; never heard Levi say anything about Mrs. Wertz; saw Eva the day after we came from Iowa; she was staying at Margaret Williams';
at the time; don't know whether Charles Hoover signed the letter or Mrs.
Wertz; got up that night between 11 and 12 o'clock; don't remember Rosa calling me; a noise in the barn awakened me; I spoke to Rosa; Levi was asleep; went to the barn and then back to the house for the liniment; then went back to the barn;
didn't know there was any liniment in the house; the next morning I got up first; Levi told me he had been up and built a fire; we burned wood; ate breakfast about 6 o'clock; Rosa and I left for the foundry about 6:30; Levi started to go to work at Hall's;
did not talk to Levi about the contents of the letter; Will was not around the house that night; I merely said at one time that I had to go down to see Mr. Fulton about a note but didn't go down that night."

"The promissory note at the bank was signed by Mrs. Wertz and myself;
it was signed on her porch; there was a cross-mark made by a lead pencil; her name was signed with ink; I held the pen; never talked to my aunt about the note afterward; don't know why she sent me a letter about the note; the lead pencil mark was put on by my aunt on the porch at the time I signed her name to the note; it was not put on after the note had been paid."

"I never got up and built the fire;
I didn't care who built the fire; Rosa generally allowed Levi to sleep late in the morning because he often had to get up to help father."

Re-direct by Mr. B. G. Smythe:
"I gave the promissory note to Mr.
Fitzgibbon at the time of the preliminary hearing before the Mayor and have not seen it since."

I went to bed; I know that Levi was at home the night my mother was killed, as he had to assist his father

"Cross-examined by Mr. Fitzgibbon:
"Shortly before my mother's death I got some money from mother; Levi was with me; when I went in Levi went up to Judson Wright's; I spent part of this money, about $30; Levi was with me when I spent the money, but it was not at his suggestion; the money was given to me to deposit in the bank and get a certificate of deposit for it; she never inquired about it; didn't go to mother's for a couple of weeks after I got the money because it was not convenient; Levi could not get away from his work and I wouldn't go alone; Levi worked on Sundays; after getting the money
I did not afterward visit my mother, Eva did not come to our house and asked to see the certificate; did not tell Eva that I had the certificate;
she never talked to me about the certificate; she never talked to me about the $100; on Wednesday I borrowed $30 and gave a note for it signed by me and my husband."

Witness was shown a note and asked how F. L. Wertz' name got on this note. She replied:
"I signed that name because mother told me to sign her name at any time for $100; Levi and I signed the note at our home at the same time; Levi signed first, then I signed my name and then signed my mother's name to the note."

not; I couldn't go to see mother and that's the reason I didn't borrow the money from her instead of from the

Tardy Recognition.

Horace
For the hen,
New emblem of America!
Biting on your laurel wreath
For the unpurged queen.
Just at the foot
Has peered over her blinders
And discovered the patient bird
Standing around
On one foot
Waiting for recognition.
Let the eagle scream.
We can't hear it
Any more;
We are too busy
Listening
To the cackling of the hen.
Utility and industry
Triumphs over tail feathers.
Iowa has spoken;
The eagle must take a back seat
And be lucky to get that.
What has the eagle done?
Done for its country?
Does it lay eggs?
Well, not over three or four a year,
And those where you could only
Just get at them.
With a flying machine,
While the hen
Or least holidays.
Every year
She lays eggs enough
To pay the national debt,
And then some.
Say,
If it wasn't for her sex,
Wouldn't she be
A boy wonder?
Maybe she is not Strong on beauty
Nor a grand opera warbler,
But jumping, pecking, and
And several other persons
With even harder names,
How she can lay!

Easily Mended.

"I hear Jones
fell off the water wagon."
"Break anything?"
"Just some resolutions."

NO MORE BABIES WILL BE NAMED FOR MR. WHAYMAN

Granville, O., June 19.—Horace Whayman, the man who hypnotized a large number of Granville people during and after the Granville centennial celebration, is now reported to be in Pittsburgh, where it is said he has been involved in several questionable real estate transactions.

One of the Columbus papers has announced that Mr. Whayman was so popular here that all the babies in town were named after him, but this is a mistake, as only one baby so far as known here, was named after Mr.
Whayman. Now it is said there is talk of changing that child's name.

Dr. Watson L. King, one of the promoters of the centennial at Granville, lost more money than anyone else through Whayman. By glowing accounts concerning a private hospital at Marion Dr. King was led to believe that it was a gold mine, but immediately after purchasing about $200 worth of stock in the concern it went into the hands of a receiver, and he secured little or nothing on his investment.

Whayman also had a habit of issuing worthless checks, and, indeed, this was a favorite method with him of doing business. When appealed to he invariably had a plausible excuse to offer. In only two instances were persons to whom such checks were given able to recover from him, and in each case he had written the check for more than the amount of the bill and had received change then he settled only after being threatened with arrest.

A year ago Granville was intensely interested in the celebration of the centennial of its founding and about that time Whayman suddenly appeared in the village and immediately began to take a deep interest in the preparations for the celebration.
His services seemed invaluable and in a few weeks he was the hero of the town. Just the other day he was expelled from the Granville Historical Society, about the same time he was put out of the Old Northwest Society at Columbus.

Mr. Whayman professed to be a pious churchman. It happens that the church of his denomination in Granville is not in a flourishing condition owing to the removal from the place of many of its members.
Mr. Whayman at once undertook to build up the church and magnanimously gave a large amount of furniture to it. This was not paid for and when the members learned of the fact they lost no time in returning it to the dealer.

Invariably courteous, well educated, and to all appearances a man in the fullest sense of the word, Mr.
Whayman during his stay in Granville received much attention from the women, and the Buxton house, where he made his home, he was invariably surrounded by a horde of dances who are just beginning to realize who the stranger really is.

An association has been formed for the purpose of applying, under certain conditions, to children in London elementary schools.

While scratching his nose with the end of a handkerchief a man in Paris accidentally pulled the trigger and blew off the tip of his nose.

New South Wales in the first four months of this year increased its imports by $1,000,000, its exports by $1,500,000, and its gold yield by $500,000.

BRAVE SAILOR RETIRES TODAY.

B. H. McCalla

Rear Admiral B. H. McCalla, who has charge of the Navy Yard at Mare Island, retires today on account of age, and in accordance with custom he was today detached from duty and ordered home on waiting orders, which in his case means retirement.

Thus draws to its close the active career of an officer who has rendered many conspicuous services to his country, the last being the energetic measures which he took at the time of the San Francisco disaster and which accomplished all that the fleet could do to check the flames, save property and restore order.

McCalla is the father of a family.

please the now famous "There is glory enough for all."

Soon after the battle of Santiago Commodore Schley began his official report and, McCalla happening to call upon him one day while he was at work upon it, Schley submitted to him the rough draft of his report. After reading it McCalla said:

"Commodore, I trust there will be no such unfortunate controversy over this matter as arose between Elliott and Perry over the battle of Lake Erie. Isn't there glory enough for all?"

But the phrase was not in the original draft, but it appeared in Schley's official report, and all know how famous it became.

THE OLD TAVERN AT GRANVILLE

"Hitch your wagon to a star," is now interpreted by the up to date business man to read, "Build a twenty-story sky scraper—" and so the old familiar landmarks of the early pioneer days that always appeals to says a writer for the Columbus Press Post.

One style of architecture of the pioneer days that always appeals to our romantic side, is the old tavern or road house, most of which have passed away with Ichabod Crane.

However, the type is still well preserved in the old Buxton House at Granville—a tavern frequented by many Columbus people.

It was built in 1812 by Orrin Granger and still preserves its long, low balcony.

The parlor of the tavern is worthy of description. It is a long, low-ceiled room, supported at corners and mid-sides by large wooden pillars, highly polished. At one end of the room is one of the old-time epithelial arches with its wooden keystone.

In stinging days this tavern was headquarters for all, and many are the notable people who have been guests' feast its hospitable roof—Samuel J. Tilden, Fred Douglass, Wendell and many others of the day. Later it was honored by our own William McKinley. Judge Harmer of Cincinnati boarded there all during his school life in Granville.

Mr. James D. Cully, who later became a resident of Columbus, owned the hotel at one time. In 1866 he sold it to Major Buxton, a typical inn-keeper—one loved by all who ever came within his winning smile or the well-come of his grasp. It is only generous to the rights of women to add that since the major's death, three years ago, his daughter, Mrs. Korn, has performed the duties of host with an equal charm, and that materially the place has improved under her administration.

At this time of the year when all our Indian blood starts a gypsy fever that puts us on the trail of nature's most beautiful scenes, let me as a "What Luck?" brother bid you follow the one that leads to this little village nestled among the hills—a bit of Massachusetts dropped down in the west. Broad shady streets, between high hills, whose ascent gives a view comparable with Virginia's mountains, a good old Indian stream in which to fish, and best of all this good old time tavern in which to sleep and dream of boyhood days to waken with the songs of birds, in rarest chord attuned; to find the sun streaming into your room with the call that makes you wonder where the dining room really is.

Then with camera and fishing-rod, or only a vagrant notion, you may tramp in any direction and find blue haze and green hills—a shiny, tortuous brook, that here flows 'neath o'er-arched willows and there spreads out in a little minnow pool and finally flows into the larger stream where you are to make your reputation as a fisherman or spend a day where "The hazy, mazy, lazy, dreaming world about you seems like a mystic land enchanted, like a paradise of dreams."

Long Tennessee Fight.

For twenty years W. L. Rawls, of Bella, Tenn., fought nasal catarrh. He writes: "The swelling and soreness inside my nose was fearful, till I began using Bucklen's Arnica Salve to the sore surface. This caused the soreness and swelling to disappear, never to return." Best salve for the cure of nasal catarrh, 25c at F. D. Hall's drugstore.

SMALL WELL.
Gas was struck in the well of the Home Oil and Gas company at Danville Monday morning. This is not very encouraging to the stockholders as it was the general expectation that either oil or gas would be found in paying quantities.

The well has not yet been placed but the most liberal estimates place it as having a capacity of about 200,000 feet.

The company has not yet decided what disposition will be made of the well. It is generally believed at present that Danville is a dead end as far as gas field is concerned.

AGREEMENT ON MEAT MEASURE

Reached at a Prolonged Conference at the White House.

CANNON SEES ROOSEVELT

Speaker Represented the House Committee on Agriculture and a Compromise Was Finally Reached—Important Changes Made in the Warehouse Inspection Bill.

Washington, June 19.—At the White House the basis of a complete agreement on meat inspection legislation was reached between President Roosevelt and the house committee on agriculture. Speaker Cannon represented the committee in this instance.

The measure will authorize an annual appropriation of $3,000,000 to pay the cost of inspection, and will contain no provision for the levy of an assessment to make up any deficiency in the amount available for this work, as suggested by Mr. Cowan, representing the Texas cattle growers, and later urged by the president. The court review provision will not be contained in the measure. This action meets the criticism of the president. The words "in the judgment of the secretary of agriculture" will not be inserted as suggested by the president, and this conclusion meets President Roosevelt's approval. The section waiving the civil service law for one year in the selection of inspectors will go out of the provision, also one of the president's recommendations. There is to be no date on the label on the packing of meat food products. In this the president yields to the committee. The language which gives inspectors the right to the packing plants at all times is implied by the words "whether the same be in operation or not."

With these changes made the president has indicated his entire satisfaction with the measure, which was reported from the committee as a substitute for the Beveridge amendment that the changes might be made.

RATE BILL.

Tillman Replies to Foraker's Criticism of Conference.

Washington, June 19.—That the conference of the two houses of congress on the railroad bill has all that it wants to do was announced in the senate by Senator Tillman. The statement was elicited by a remark made by Senator Foraker in speaking of a number of telegraphic protests he had received against the retention of the senate amendment making common carriers of pipe lines. He asked that the telegrams be referred to the conference, remarking that he had made an effort to personally present them to the conference, but that he had been denied admission to their "angust presence." Mr. Tillman construed this as a "sarcastic allusion" and made the explanation that the conference, finding, their present troubles sufficient, had been argued to shut the doors against arguments from those who are not members of the committee.

Cincinnati, O., June 19.—Samuel Moreland, a South Bellevue dairyman, and his wife, parents of Jockey Moreland, now performing on the Canadian tracks, were probably fatally burned by gasoline at their home while attempting to reach a roll of money hidden in a stove, which had exploded.

Toledo, O., June 19.—Henry Brelinings of the Bawbeide Ice company, indicted by the grand jury for conspiracy in restraint of trade, entered plea of guilty. This is the third ice company to plead guilty under the anti-trust law.

RARE PEARL

In the Possession of a Clam Fisher, Who Had Been Poor.

Redwing, Minn., June 19.—William Bates, a clam fisher, has found a pearl in a clam shell which is said to be the largest freshwater pearl in existence. He does not know its value, but its worth is estimated at anywhere from $10,000 to $100,000. It is as large as a golf-sized marble and has a beautiful lustre. Its weight is 5 1/2 grams. Heretofore Bates and his wife, who are among the few remaining clam fishers, have been poor.

Bridge Company Fined.

Norwalk, O., June 19.—The Mount Vernon Bridge company, indicted for conspiracy against trade in connection with the so-called bridge trust, waived the right of trial by jury and consented to be tried on the evidence introduced at the recent trial of the other companies and agents here. This was held to be equivalent to pleading guilty and the company was fined $200 and costs by Judge Richardson.

Segro's Cotton Press Invention.

Jim Washington, an old negro who was born and raised on a plantation near Hallsboro, Mo., has invented and obtained a patent on an improved cotton baling press, says a correspondent in the St. Louis Post Dispatch. It is claimed by those who have examined the patent, that it will revolutionize the present method of baling cotton. The idea of having a baling press to do the work of a man and compress it is now the thing and baling is being done at one-third the cost now being incurred in the invention.

BIG CELEBRATION HERE JULY 4

Newark Elks and King's Daughters Will Join in Presenting Delightful Program at Old Fort the Entire Proceeds to Go to Charity--Tickets Will be 25 Cents Each.

Newark is to have a big Fourth of July celebration thanks to the King's Daughters and the Newark Lodge of Elks.

Preliminary arrangements are now on to carry out a big program full of fun and sports at the Old Fort on July 4 beginning at 1 p. m. that day, the entire proceeds to be devoted to charity to be dispensed by the King's Daughters who are past masters in the work of relieving the distressed.

The merchants are to be asked to donate prizes for the several events and the Elks who have generously undertaken the work for the King's Daughters promise to contribute largely to the program. There will be a baseball game between Newark and visiting Elks, an egg race for ladies, potato race for ladies, mail driving contest, running and hop races for girls, 100-yard dash for boys, hop, step and jump, and sack races for boys, shoe race for men, running broad jump for Elks, standing broad jump for Elks, pipe race for Elks, running backward race and ball throwing contest for Elks; prizes for the heaviest, lightest, tallest, shortest visiting Elks; tug of war between 10 Elks and 10 visitors, and many other attractive features including a Rooseveltian contest—in other words, a prize will be given to the man bringing the largest family to the celebration.

The ground has been donated for the day and as practically everything will be given without price, the proceeds resulting from the admission fee of 25 cents at the gate will go to charity.

The Elks will name committees to assist in executing the preliminary work and the King's Daughters will secure prizes, sell tickets and in other ways help to make the event a big success.

This is to be a sane celebration—no shooting of firecrackers will be allowed on the ground during the afternoon, so that all present may enjoy the events.

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH.

In its argument for a safe and sane celebration of the Fourth of July, the Hartford, Conn., Times says:

The demand for the substitution of a civilized Fourth for a barbaric Fourth is deepening and broadening. It is cropping out everywhere.

Sentiment everywhere is revolting against the lawless, perilous and over-noisy way of celebrating the day. Demand for reform is waxing stronger each year. An attractive and joyous Fourth of July, from which the evils of danger, of disturbance and of disorder are cast out, is bound, soon or late, to displace the present style of Fourth.

The people are beginning to find out that patriotism does not mean destruction of life and property; that it is not necessary to blow oneself or his neighbor to pieces or to destroy property to "celebrate" the Glorious Fourth.

Each fifth day of July the papers are filled with harrowing reports of Fourth of July casualties due to foolish practices of would-be patriots, but many are beginning to learn that there are saner ways to celebrate. Some cities have established regulations for the preservation of life and property on the Fourth and in these places there is a noticeable improvement in conditions following the annual celebration of the Nation's birthday. It is time for Newark to act. Let the sale of dangerous explosives and firearms be restricted and let all safeguards possible be established.

The King's Daughters and the Newark Elks are just now planning for a sane celebration of the Fourth at Idlewild park but the plans so far are incomplete. It may be announced, however, that a splendid program with all objectionable features omitted will be prepared and that there will be fun of the genuine sort for everybody—and the best feature is that the entire proceeds will go to charity.

Studio on North Fourth Street
For Three Days.

Miss Ema Spencer's new photographic studio adjoining her father's residence at 161 North Fourth street, was opened Tuesday afternoon to the public and a large number of people interested in the new photography were present to view the pictures which have been hung for the three day exhibition.

Much interest was taken by the visitors, as the pictures shown include many that Miss Spencer has made in the past three or four years and include those for which she was awarded medals at the international exhibitions in Italy, Germany, England and in the eastern cities of this country.

The pictures differ from the "old school" of photography in that the artist endeavors to make a picture as well as a portrait, while photographers as a rule aim to produce a good likeness only. Miss Spencer was assisted during the afternoon by Miss Helen Tucker and Miss Louise Hannan. This evening Misses Loretta and Helena Hannan will serve punch. All who are interested in seeing these pictures are cordially invited to visit Miss Spencer's studio this evening, tomorrow afternoon or evening, or Thursday afternoon or evening.

Kerosene rubbed into boots and shoes which have been hardened by water will soften them. Rubbing with a woolen rag, saturated with kerosene, will also brighten tin and granite ware.

To clean zinc dip a piece of flannel in paraffin and with it well rub the zinc, which should then be washed with hot water and soap to remove the smell of the oil and polished with a dry cloth.

STRIKE SETTLED

Columbus, June 19—The settlement of more than eleven weeks' suspension of the Ohio Coal Mining industry is now but a question of affixing the signatures and will undoubtedly be effected some time today. The executive board of United Miners held a conference with Chairman Winder of the operators last night, which continued until early this morning.

TWELVE ARE MISSING.

Boston, June 19—The schooner Philip Manta of Provincetown, arrived today minus 12 of the crew. Captain King reported the men lost while fishing from dories 25 miles southeast of Chatham, Sunday. He hopes they may have been picked up by other vessels.
